the assumption that Richmond vill retain its berth in the International rday signed a contract with the Poson Braves for two exhibition garnes. On Braves for two exhibition games. The former champions will play here on April 4 and 5, providing that Jack Dunn disposes of his interests. The Philadelphia Athletics have already taken April 3, and the Washington Americans will be here on April 3, and possibly on another date also. Tentative offers have been received from tive offers have been received from other big league teams, but no other exhibitions have yet been scheduled.

The directors of the Richmond Exhi-bition Company were in a much better frame of mind yesterday in regard to the situation, and there is a feeling that something will turn up to save the franchise. Dunn, in a conversation with Alvin M. Smith, stated that he was willing to do all in his power to help out, but, as he cannot be finan-cially interested in two clubs in the same circuit, some arrangement must be made to take over his stock.

William B. Bradley, secretary of the Broad Street Park Corporatios, which owned the Richmond Virginia League club, was approached unofficially yesshare in the company. Mr. Bradley, however, was not in a position to be-come so heavily involved at this time. but frankly stated that the proposition looked good. The investment, he stated, is two to one as good as at this time last year.

The greatest surprise to Dunn is the apathy of the financial interests of Richmond toward the baseball proposition. While the fans generally are anxious to have the International Lengue play ball here, those to whom the total investment is a mere bagatelle have never lifted a hand. The Chaming for new enterprises, has never done anything to keep this one here, in spite of the fact that in five months last year it put $60,000 into circ la tion in this city, besides giving Rich mond more advertisement throughout Federal armies used "on to Richmond" as their battle slogan.
